

Berkshire Estates Change Hands, With Some New Houses to Be Built

Town Manager for Stockbridge

Lenox, Mass., Nov. 8.

CHEERFUL estate fire blazes in the assembly room of the Lenox Club these gray late season days and gathered there every afternoon are many cottagers. It is the clearing house for the cottagers who remain in their country places. The club's governors have decided to keep the clubhouse open until after the new year, perhaps even longer if the number of members remaining in the hills warrant it. The clubhouse is the rallying place for bridge and dancing, besides being the starting place for raccoon hunts, automobile and the other parties.

The late season has been brisk. It has resulted itself into affairs for cottagers and lacks only the incoming of visitors from other resorts to be likened to the September season. Riding has gained additional, walking is a daily pastime of many.

The coming here of Mrs. Ambrose C. Kingsland with her daughters, Mrs. Barrington-White and Miss Kingsland, has helped to enliven the resort. Mrs. Kingsland's coming has the social obligations showered upon her on her arrival, has given several notable dinners. They served to introduce her son-in-law, Capt. Barrington-White of the Grenadier Guards of London, who is a seasoned golfer, rider and sportsman.

Preparations are being made for next season. In Stockbridge the cottagers are planning for a town manager. In Stockbridge several important transfers of real estate have been made. Mrs. Nina Larre Duryea of New York, head of the Duryea War Relief, to whom was awarded recently a medal of honor by the French Government for her war work, has bought a property in Stockbridge and will build a country home. She was attracted there by her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Chester French. Mrs. Elizabeth Wright of New York has bought several acres on Yale Hill and will build a summer place. The Rev. Dr. George Grenville Merrill, rector of St. Paul's Church, has bought the Yale homestead.

New House for Noted Old Estate.

Miss Katherine Bullard of Boston has given a contract for a new country house at Highwood, overlooking Lake Mahkencas in Lenox. This estate was created in 1845 by Samuel Ward of New York, then representative in America of Baring Bros. of London. There has been a Charles Sumner, Oliver Wendell Holmes and many other notables. William S. Bullard of Boston bought the place and it was from her ancestor that Miss Bullard inherited the estate. Her new home, on the site of the original house, will be of wood and stucco.

The Curtis Hotel has been an interesting spot. The New England Hotel Men's Association met there. Also there were Mrs. Albert H. Gallatin, Miss Cornelia Gallatin, Albert Eugene Gallatin, Miss Mary de P. Carey, Mrs. John C. Mallory and Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Lee of New York.

Among those who left the Curtis for New York this week were Mrs. Frances S. Barlow, Mrs. George H. Morgan, Mrs. M. C. Morgan, Mrs. Joseph Glendish and Miss Irene Bigelow. Mr. and Mrs. S. Parkman Shaw and Miss Anna B. Shaw left the hotel for Boston.

Tourists registering this week at the Curtis Hotel included Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Wood of Chicago.

Farewell Parties at Newport

Newport, Nov. 8.

SOCIAL activity among members of the naval colony this week was marked by a series of dinners for Capt. and Mrs. Edward H. Campbell at the Naval Training Station, Capt. Campbell will relinquish command of the station next week to Capt. D. E. Diamukes. The dinners were in the form of farewell parties, though Capt. and Mrs. Campbell will not leave Newport, the former having been assigned to the new class at the Naval War College, which will begin its studies on December 1. They have taken a cottage in Everett street for their home and Mrs. Campbell is to devote much of her time to the Rhode Island Auxiliary of the Navy Relief, she having been chosen as acting president to fill the place of Mrs. Charles M. Thomas, widow of Admiral Thomas, who is away for the winter.

Capt. and Mrs. William Woodward Phelps entertained at tea this week in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Peyton Van Rensselaer, who are closing their season and going to Boston for the remainder of the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Chester French closed Chesterwood in Glendale on Tuesday. They have been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Underwood Johnson of New York. Mr. John B. Swann of New York who was at the Warren cottage in Stockbridge, has gone to Pittsfield to pass the winter. Mrs. Frederick W. Whitbridge closed the Brick House in Stockbridge and went to New York. Also departing from New York were Mr. and Mrs. Banny Clark, who were in Tynningham all the season.

Having shot and photographed sheep in the Canadian Rockies, where they were during October, Capt. William B. O. Field returned to Lenox this week and Dr. Brance W. Paddock to Pittsfield.

Mrs. Robert Winthrop is staying with her son, Greenville L. Winthrop, before going to her town house. Mrs. George H. Bend went to New York for a visit to her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland F. Bishop. Dr. Everett M. Culver of New York has leased his estate in New Marlborough to E. L. Wood of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Kissel, Jr., have decided to pass the winter in Boston, where they have taken a house. They went to Boston this week after a visit to Mr. and Mrs. George E. Turnure. Miss Emily W. Biddle went to Philadelphia Monday from Freely Corners. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Barrington left their estate in Great Barrington and went to New York.

Mrs. Henry Hollister Pease is directing the Red Cross campaign for membership with a corps of twenty workers. Mrs. W. Roscoe Bonnal returned to Ventfort Hall this week from Hot Springs, Va. Mr. and Mrs. Bonnal will be there until well into the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Lippencott closed Greenbrier Farm, in Stockbridge to-day and went to town.

Large November Colony at White Sulphur Springs Increases as Thanksgiving Day Nears

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Nov. 8.

NOVEMBER has come to rank with May as a favorite cure month here, and thus there is an important colony at White Sulphur of persons who have come from Newport and other resorts. Mrs. Van derbilt, who arrived from New York this week is here for the cure. Mrs. James Brown Potter, a cure devotee, will pass a month here.

Mrs. Campbell Steward of Goshen and her daughter, Miss Katherine Steward, arrived at the resort a few days ago, joining Mrs. Steward's brother, Gov. R. Livingston Beekman, of Rhode Island, who with Mrs. Beekman, returned to Providence. Miss Julia Berwind of Newport and Philadelphia, who passed much of the autumn season here, has returned to town.

Countess of Strafford, who came here to remain ten days, has decided to prolong her stay indefinitely. She was much in the company of Mrs. Frank Gray Griswold and Mrs. Francis Key Pendleton. The former returned home on Sunday, and Justice Pendleton came down for the week end to accompany Mrs. Pendleton to New York.

James J. Van Allen of Newport, who passed a few days at Hot Springs, came to the Greenbrier this week to remain through the month. W. Earle Dodge, who has made several visits to the Greenbrier this autumn, motoring from Hot Springs with W. Barton French, has come to pass some time here and is exploring the surrounding country by automobile.

Mrs. George F. Brewster of Oyster Bay and Mrs. Frank Brewster of New Haven, who are here for a month, are active in the informal social life of the resort. Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. John B. Klipstick of New York are passing their honeymoon here. Mrs. Klipstick was Mrs. Stephanie Raymond of Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Russell of New York and Virginia entertained eight guests at dinner at the Kate's Mountain Club on Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sanderson, who arrived here from New York to pass a few weeks, gave a luncheon in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fletcher. Miss Jean Fletcher and her guest, Miss Katharine Rhodes of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward McKenna of New York are still at Casino Cottage, which they have occupied since early spring. Mr. and Mrs. Christopher D.

Virginia Hot Springs Looks for Crowd

Hot Springs, Va., Nov. 8.

THE early days of the season held many colonists over from the summer here and now these are giving way to arrivals for the latter part of November. Few periods could equal these delightful days. Arrivals have been numerous the last week, and a remarkable Thanksgiving is promised in these Alleghany Mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Drexel, accompanied by W. H. Nelson, arrived early in the week for the late autumn season. Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Bache Pratt, with Miss Beatrice Pratt, came for their usual visit at this time of year. Mrs. Charles B. Baldwin and Mrs. Daniel B. Fearing arrived from Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. John Russell Pope, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew H. Broome, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steel Brower, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. McMurtry and Mrs. George McMurtry, got in during the week from New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Newell J. Ward are at the Homestead from New York to remain two months. Mrs. James M. Beck with Miss Beatrice Beck and Miss Gloria Thomas arrived here on Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Tremper Longman are here on their honeymoon and Mrs. Longman's sister, Mrs. H. de Leudonck came from New York. Mrs. de Leudonck was formerly Mrs. Levi W. Reid and a frequent visitor to Hot Springs.

Arrivals From the North.

Dr. Howard D. Collins arrived early in the week, as did Bertram G. Work. Frederick H. Page and Quentin Todd, who came from Rye, N. Y., to take the cure. E. Pennington Pearson passed the greater part of the week at the Homestead, where he visited his brother, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Flynn of East Orange are early week additions to the colony from New Jersey. Mrs. Norton Downs, Miss Phoebe McKean Downs, Mrs. J. E. Thayer, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Garrett V. Clark came from Philadelphia. Mr. and Mrs. James W. Slaughter were at the Homestead early in the week after passing the summer at their Virginia estate, the Plains.

From many cities in the West and the middle West have come additions to the autumn colony. From Boston and Providence also have come many visitors, and also from New Haven.

Early in November with clear, cool days and the frequent rain, each morning a gay clatter of hoofs sounds on the pavement before the great portico of the Homestead. Mrs. Cordelia Tiers with her little daughter is daily on the trails, and Mrs. Terah Haggin, true to her California traditions, rides daily, and generally to the most remote mountain trails. The Baroness Rosenkrantz rides almost every day.

Capt. Frederick Russell and Count Robert de Clairmont were among the riders of the week, as were Mr. and Mrs. Melville E. Ingalls.

A notable riding adventure of the week was a four day trip to Natural Bridge by Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Creighton of Lynn, Mass., who went by way of Goshen Pass and Lexington and returned by way of Dagger Springs and Clinton Forge and over the mountain crest to Hot Springs.

Mrs. Pembroke Jones, Mrs. Frederick Pearson, Mrs. Henry Chapman and Mr. and Mrs. William Bayne drive daily, and one of their favorite excursions is to Healing Springs, with its charming atmosphere and its nearby cascades.

Warm Springs with its century old hotel and noted sulphur pool, claimed much attention. Mr. and Mrs. John R. McCulloch and W. Barton French made a number of trips to this picturesque resort during the week. Before his departure for New York early in the week Thomas W. Slocum motored to Warm Springs with Mr. and Mrs. Melville E. Ingalls.

Mrs. Peter Jay, who had been at the Plains with her mother, Mrs. John J. McCook, started on Tuesday for New York, whence they will go to Italy. Mrs. Jay will join Mr. Jay in Rome at the American Embassy. Mrs. Pierre Jay, who was at the Homestead with Mrs. Stephen Van Rensselaer Crosby, went to New York early in the week. Mrs. Henry Seligman entertained
